- JJIF competition rules, organization and sporting code of JJIF. We make an appeal to all participants to respect fair-play and the JJIF ethics code and the JJIF anti-doping rules

7. Competition Method

○ Fighting

With a different approach, the Fighting System is articulated in a three minute combats between athletes from opposing teams. The actual combat is divided in three parts: Part I sees the Jutsukas involved in distance combat and controlled attacks with arms and legs. Once a grab has been made, the fight enters Part II and hits are no longer allowed. The Jutsukas try to bring one another down with various throwing techniques. Points are given according to how 'clean' and effective the actions are judged. Once down on the tatamis (mats), the match enters its Part III. Here points are given for immobilization techniques, controlled strangulations or levers on body joints that bring the opponent to yield.

The winner is the Jutsuka who has accumulated most points during the fight or performed a "perfect technique in all three Parts" got scored by Ippon. In this case the fight will be ended before time ran out. This type of competition requires timing, agility, strength and endurance. Points and Penalties must be given by the majority of the referees.

○ Ne-Waza

The Ne-Waza (ground technique) is one of the main Ju-jitsu (and Judo) basis. It's important technical heritage measures up to its big efficiency and educational value.

The fight of two opponents starts standing. Punches and kicks are not allowed. After starting the fight, the referee interrupts only in crucial moments so normally the main part of the fight takes place on the ground. It is the goal to win by submission with a lock on the joints or strangulation. During the time of 5 minutes it is possible to gain points for throws, take down controlling positions and actions giving you an advantage in the fight. The Ne-Waza Ju-Jitsu is extremely tactical and sometimes described as the chess of martial arts.

○ Duo Show

Based on the Indoor competition called "Duo System" which is a discipline in which a pair of Ju-Jitsukas from the same team show possible self--defense techniques against a series of attacks to cover the following scenarios: grip attack (or strangulation), embrace attack (or necklock), hit attack (punch or kick) and armed attack (stick or knife). The Show system has three (3) competition categories: male, female or mixed. And the athletes are judged for their speed, accuracy, control and realism. It is arguably the most spectacular form of Ju-jitsu and it requires great technical preparation, synchronism and elevated athletic qualities. The jury shall look for and judge the following criteria:

1. Powerful attack
2. Reality
3. Control
4. Effectiveness
5. Attitude
6. Speed
7. Variability
8. Show/ attraction to the audience

The scores are given from 0 to 10 (1/2 number intervals) by three judges.
